Introduction : The Owners of Hornby Castle

THE STANLEYS

THE fortune of the house of Stanley was greatly augmented by the successful change of allegiance effected by Lord Stanley at the battle of Bosworth in the year 1485. Leading the Lancashire and Cheshire hosts, he threw his power on to the side of the earl of Richmond and turned the battle in favour of that prince, who then became King Henry VII.

His reward was immediate and great: he was created earl of Derby and given many additional lands escheated from the discomfited Yorkists. He was also given the wardship and marriages of the two coheiresses of Sir John Harrington of Hornby Castle in Lancashire. Losing no time he married the eldest daughter Anne to his son Sir Edward Stanley, knight, and the second daughter Elizabeth to his kinsman John Stanley.

Sir Edward Stanley, K.B., and his wife Anne received as their share of the Harrington lands Hornby Castle, with its demesne and the manors of Hornby, Tatham, Melling, Arkholme and Gresingham. He also received from the Crown "The manor of Farleton in Lonsdale and the manor of Farleton in Kendal, co. Westmorland, the manor of Bryerley and half the manor of Hemesworth in co. York and the advowson of the church of Hemesworth and all other manors and advowsons of abbeys, priories, churches, chapels, chantries and other ecclesiastical benefices which formerly belonged to James Harrington, knight, in the counties aforesaid which by reason of the forfeiture and attainder of the said James are in our hands"; to be held to Sir Edward Stanley and his heirs male for ever under the rents usual from 23 August, 1 Henry VII [1485]. Dated at Westminster, 8 March, 4 Henry VII [1489]. By letter of privy seal.<sup>1</sup>

In 1513 Sir Edward Stanley led the Lancashire host to the battle of Flodden Field, where he distinguished himself and was rewarded by being advanced to the peerage as Lord Mounteagle ; but before starting for Flodden he made a will which can be read in his Inquisition post mortem along with his last will and testament (see Appendix).

His death took place on 6 or 7 April, 1523, whilst engaged in rebuilding the church at Hornby. He was buried temporarily in the graveyard of Hornby Priory with a view to being translated to a vault in Hornby Church when the alterations to that church should be completed ; but this intention, it is said, was never carried out and the place of his burial has been lost.

His Inquisition post mortem is such a lengthy document that it has been placed in an appendix ; it is much faded and torn, but illegible passages have been obtained from his other Inquisitions for other counties. It contains his two wills, the one made in 1513 before starting for Flodden and his final will made in 1523.

A roll of his Hornby lands with the money receipts and their expenditure is also given in the Appendix.

He was succeeded by his only son Sir Thomas Stanley, K.B., 2nd Lord Mounteagle, born in 1508 and therefore under age in 1524. Sir Thomas was married twice : first to Mary, daughter of Charles Brandon, duke of Suffolk, by whom he had issue ; and secondly to Ellen, daughter of Sir Thomas Preston of Preston Patrick, by whom he had no issue.

In the nineteenth year of King Henry VIII [1527-28] he attended Cardinal Wolsey on his embassy to France, and in the twenty-fourth year [1532-33] he was made a Knight of the Bath at the coronation of Queen Anne Boleyn.

In the twenty-ninth year of Henry VIII [1537] we find a list of the Freeholders under Hornby Castle, viz. :—

This Lord Mounteagle enlarged his estate by purchasing from the Crown the land and buildings of the dissolved Priory of Hornby, in which purchase he associated his accountant Henry Croft, gentleman. The grant states "that for £128 3s. 4d. paid into the treasury, the king grants to Sir Thomas Stanley, lord Mounteagle, and Henry Croft, gent., the whole house and site of the former Priory or Cell of Hornby in co. Lancaster formerly annexed to the monastery of Croxton in Leicestershire, with all buildings &c. Also that close called 'le Gretehardefylde' (8a.) and one parcel of land called 'Croxton Parke' (1a.) and a parcel called 'litlehardefylde' (6a.), also a parcel of meadow called 'le Myre Medowe' (3½a.) and a close of arable land called 'le lytle Croks' (1a. and 1a. of meadow) and one close of arable land called 'le great Croks' (4a.) and the meadow called 'Eyre' (7a.) and a parcel of arable land called 'le Netherflatte' (9a.) and another parcel of land called 'le Overflatte' (9a.) And a parcel of arable land called 'le Olde Orcharde' (1a.) and a parcel called 'le Kylne Crofte' (1a.) near to and lying in Hornby in the parish of Melling, co. Lancaster, which lands &c. were in the holding of Charles, Duke of Suffolk, and the said Lord Mounteagle, and were commonly called 'lez demean landes' of the said former Priory. We also give to the said Thomas Stanley, knight, Lord Mounteagle and Henry Croft all that parcel of pasture called 'Brodewoode' (8a.) now or late in the tenure of the said Duke of Suffolk and the Lord Mounteagle lying in the parish of Melling, co. Lancaster, formerly belonging to the Priory. Also that messuage and tenement with one garden and one croft adjacent and one close of meadow called 'Mylne close' (1a.) and one close of arable land (3a.) and one close of pasture called 'Marlehole' (1a.), now or formerly in the tenure of the said Henry Croft, situate and lying in Hornby. And also all that messuage and tenement with one garden adjacent, now or formerly in the tenure of Edmund Burton, lying in Olde Wennyngton. And also all those forty acres of arable land and twenty-two acres of meadow now or formerly in the tenure of the said Edmund Burton lying in the fields of Old Wennington. And also all and singular messuages, tenements, tofts, crofts &c., whatsoever in Sedebar in co. York formerly part of the possessions of the Priory of Hornby. Also all woods, underwoods, trees &c."

"The site of the Priory etc (except the pasture called Brodewoode) are of the yearly value of 6*rs.* 2*d.*, and the said pasture is worth 5*s.* 4*d.* yearly. The messuages &c occupied by Henry Croft are valued at 2*rs.*, the messuages &c in Old Wennington at 43*s.*, and those in Sedebar at 10*s.* 10*d.* Bells, lead and superfluous buildings within the Priory site are reserved to Us, as also advowsons of rectories, vicarages, chapels and chantries belonging to the Priory. The site &c and tenements in Hornby and Old Wennington and the pasture called Brodewoode are to be held of Us and our successors in Chief by the service of one fortieth of a knights fee and a rent of 6*s.* 1½*d.* for the lands &c in Hornby (except Brodewoode and Henry Croft's holding) And 4*s.* 4*d.* for those in Old Wennington, payable at the Court of Augmentations yearly at Michaelmas; the pasture called Brodewoode, the messuages in Hornby in Henry Croft's tenure and those in Sedebar to be held in socage by fealty only and not in chief, rendering yearly for Brodewoode 6*s.* 1*d.*, for the premises in Hornby 2*s.* 1*d.* and for those in Sedebar 13*d.* at the Court of Augmentations yearly. Other rents and services are discharged. At Westminster 21 November 36 Henry VIII" [1544].<sup>1</sup>

On 1 April, 1549, Thomas Stanley, knight, Lord Mounteagle, settled properties, inter alia, "the site, circuit, ambit and precinct of the late Priory or Cell of Hornby" on himself for life, then to his wife Lady Ellen for her life, and at her death to his right heirs for ever.<sup>2</sup>

From his will it appears that he obtained leases of the parsonages of Melling and Bolton-le-Sands in co. Lancaster and of Clapham in co. York [Clapham is not named in the will, a space being left blank; but appears in his son's accounts which will appear later—see p. 102]. He died on 18 August, 1560, and was buried at Melling. His will is dated 28 July, 1558, and was proved on 29 August, 1564.<sup>3</sup>

To him succeeded his son Sir William Stanley, knight, 3rd

Lord Mounteagle. He also was married twice: first, to Anne, daughter of Thomas Preston and widow of Sir James Layburne of Cunswick, co. Westmorland,<sup>1</sup> by whom he had his only child Elizabeth, born c. 1558; and secondly, to Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Spencer, of Althorp (married in London in September 1575<sup>2</sup>).

He had a description of Hornby Castle and his lands written by a land surveyor, William Peares, c. 1579–85. This book was known to Dr. Whitaker and to Baines's editors, as it is mentioned in the History of Richmondshire and in that of Lancashire; its contents are given later. We also have an account of the revenue and expenditure of this Lord Mounteagle (found in the papers of the late Mr. George Wright of Heysham), which shows an income of £1,491 19s. 4½d. and an expenditure of £1,184 15s. 2¼d. for the year 1581–82; a copy of this document is given subsequently.

His Yorkshire Inquisition post mortem, taken at Halifax, co. York, on 18 September, 24 Eliz. [1582] states that "he held the moiety of the manor of Sedbergh and 20 messuages, 10 cottages, 200 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, 200 acres of peat and wood heath and furze in Sedbergh, Dent, Bentham and Graystongill, and died on 10 November, 23 Eliz. [1581], at Skipton, co. York, and that Elizabeth wife of Edward, Lord Morley, Baron of Rye, is his only daughter and next heir, aged 24 years and more. The moiety of the manor is worth yearly clear £11 4s. 6d. and the premises £4 5s. 3d."<sup>3</sup>

THE PARKERS

The above-named Elizabeth Stanley with her husband Edward Parker, Lord Morley (an Essex nobleman), came to Hornby Castle and she entered on her inheritance, but did not survive for long as she was dead by 1585, as is shown by the Inquisition post mortem on Lord Morley, where, in a settlement he made in 1585, he refers to her as his late Lady.<sup>4</sup> His family by her was:—

(1) William Parker, born c. 1575, of whom later. (2) Henry Parker. (3) Charles Parker. (4) Mary Parker. (5) Elizabeth Parker. (6) Frances Parker.

Edward, Lord Morley, died at Hallingbury Morley, co. Essex, on 1 April, 16 James I [1618], and "William Parker, knight, Lord Mounteagle, now Lord Morley, is his son and heir" and at his father's death was aged 43 years and more.<sup>1</sup>

The son William Parker on the death of his mother, c. 1585, would become Lord Mounteagle until he inherited the older title of Lord Morley by the death of his father in 1618. To distinguish him from his grandfather Sir William Stanley, Lord Mounteagle, he is always called Sir William Parker Lord Mounteagle in the Hornby Castle deeds until the death of his father, after which he is called Lord Morley and Mounteagle.

Shortly after coming into possession of the estates, by the death of his mother, he sold the freehold of the farm of Pott Yeats in Littledale, on which a family of the name of Faithwaite were tenants, to Thomas Lawrence of Ellet, gentleman, who in turn sold it in 1597 to Anthony, son of Thomas Faithwaite (the tenant) for £89 13s. 4d.,<sup>2</sup> and thus this farm became the freehold of this latter family and is still in their possession.

He had married Elizabeth Tresham before 6 January, 1592; she was a relation of the Treshams connected with the Gunpowder Plot, which accounts for her husband receiving the famous letter which caused the discovery of the plot in 1605. He died on 1 July, 1622. His wife survived him and obtained a general pardon on 10 February, 1 Charles I [1626].

To him succeeded his son and heir Sir Henry Parker, K.B., Lord Morley and Mounteagle, aged 24 years and 9 months at his father's death. In May 1623 he conformed to the Church of England. In 1634 he was heavily fined in the Star Chamber, and in 1635 went abroad, where he became reconciled to Rome. In the Commonwealth war he sided with the king and Hornby Castle was captured by the Parliamentary forces in 1643. His estate was declared forfeited and was sold to Major John Wildman on 8 June, 1654. He died on 10 May, 1655. His wife was Philippa, daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas Caryll; her marriage settlement was dated 4 November, 16 James I [1618], and she died c. 1660.

Thomas Parker Lord Morley and Mounteagle succeeded to what was left of the estates, as son and heir and only child. He was born c. 1636, being 2 years old in 1638 and 15 in 1651. He married Mary, daughter of Sir Henry Martin of Longworth,

Berkshire ; but had no issue. She was buried at Great Hallingbury on 13 July, 1700.<sup>1</sup>

At the Restoration in 1660 he found his Hornby lands in the hands of strangers, and as part of the agreement between the Parliament and King Charles II was that lands purchased during the Commonwealth were not to be taken from the purchasers, he had to negotiate with Major John Wildman with a view to repurchasing Hornby Castle and its manors. To this end on 14 February, 1662-63, he and Robert, Lord Brudenell, petitioned the king for leave to raise £6,500 to pay off Major John Wildman and £5,000 due to his late mother, Lady Morley, for which purpose Lord Brudenell had advanced £11,000, and Lord Morley desired to sell [? mortgage] his manors of Hornby, Tatham and Farleton-in-Lonsdale.<sup>2</sup> Difficulties were raised as to the ancient franchises granted to Hubert de Burgh in the reign of Henry III ; so a new charter was granted to Robert, earl of Cardigan, on 21 May, 16 Charles II [1664], to hold the Honor and Manor of Hornby and the manors of Tatham and Farleton [-in-Lonsdale] as fully as they were held by James Harrington, knight, and Robert Harrington, knight, attainted of high treason in 1 Henry VII.<sup>3</sup> (See Appendix.)

It is difficult to follow what transpired next as the deeds are in private hands ; but apparently the manor of Farleton-in-Lonsdale was sold outright to Lord Cardigan, as leases of the lands there to various farmers are signed by Brudenells, whilst Lord Morley still signed leases for the Hornby and Tatham manors. We may therefore assume that the last two manors, though mortgaged, remained in the possession of Lord Morley, who resided in Hornby Castle, until his death in 1697 without issue, on which both the baronies fell into abeyance.

On this event the earl of Cardigan appears to have taken possession of the whole property, presumably on the strength of the mortgage.

The Brudenell family did not hold the property long as by Indenture, dated 30 October, 1713, George, earl of Cardigan, sold the Castle of Hornby with its various manors to the notorious Colonel Francis Charteris for £14,500. On 10 November, 1729, this man was convicted of a rape and sentenced to death ; but he managed to obtain a free pardon on 14 March, 1729-30. There exists an Inquisition, taken at Lancaster on 14 August, 1730, detailing all his possessions ; from which it appears that his annual income from lands was £1,323 10s. 6*d.* and his personal estate amounted to £1,454 14s. 6½*d.*, of which £1,089 5s. 0*d.* was for money lent and secured by bonds.<sup>1</sup>

On the death of Colonel Francis Charteris in February, 1732, the property descended to his only child Janet Charteris, who by marrying the earl of Wemyss conveyed the estates into that family, in which they remained until they were sold in 1787 to John Marsden of Wennington Hall. Marsden retained them until his death in 1826, when his will was contested in a series of law-suits, Tatham versus Wright, which turned on the question whether John Marsden was capable of making a will. This question was finally decided in 1836 in favour of the plaintiff, Rear-Admiral Sanford Tatham, who thereupon entered on possession of the Castle of Hornby and its manors. Admiral Tatham died in 1840 and, having no issue, left the Castle and estates to a cousin, Mr. Pudsey Dawson, who in turn left it to his nephew, another Mr. Pudsey Dawson ; but as the estates were heavily mortgaged (a result of the long litigation), his executors sold them in 1861 to a Mr. John Foster of Queensbury, Yorks, in whose family they remained until Mr. Cyril Foster sold them to a London Syndicate in the year 1938. The syndicate on 1 December, 1938, commenced selling the various properties off in lots.

INTRODUCTION TO THE SURVEY OF THE HORNBY CASTLE ESTATES

THIS very minutely detailed Survey must have taken several years to complete, as all the land was carefully measured by William Peares and his helpers (William Peares signs a statement in the survey of Preston). The date is somewhat hard to arrive at, as the only definite date given is 1584, when the survey of Hay Carr in the Manor of Ellel was made, and that date is referred to as past when Heysham Manor was being measured; but another date can be approximately obtained from the entry of Caton Hall, which is recorded as in the tenure of Robert Baynes. Now this Robert Baynes died in July 1581, his inventory is dated 3 August, 1581,<sup>1</sup> so that the survey of Caton must have been made before his death, say in 1580.

The order in which the survey is entered does not necessarily indicate the order in which it was made; but it may do so and was as follows:—

1. Hornby Castle and grounds.
2. Hornby Manor including Wray, Melling, Arkholme, Roburndale the Priory and the bounds of Roburndale.
3. Botton Manor.
4. Tatham Manor and its bounds.
5. Farleton Manor.
4. Bentham lands.
5. The half Manor of Caton and bounds.
6. Ellel Manor surveyed in 1584.
7. Priest Hutton lands.
8. Over Kellet Manor.
9. Heysham Manor and its bounds.
10. Bolton-le-Sands lands.
11. Whittington and Newton Manor.
12. Hayfield Manor near Manchester.
13. Preston in Amunderness.
14. Walton-le-Dale lands.
15. The Town of Lancaster burgages.

If we allow six years for the work it does not appear too much and we can put it about 1579 to 1585.

The labour and therefore the time expended upon it was very great: every acre measured, every bay counted, every tenant's name obtained and checked, the rents checked with previous surveys, also the boundaries of three manors recorded, all of which must have occupied much time.

The term "crops," "crooks" or "cronks" used in describing buildings related to pairs of naturally bent timbers used in forming the arch of a roof; sometimes they were large timbers planted in the ground and meeting to support the ridge beam of the roof. The space between such timbers was called a "bay."

There is also another term which is written "outsetts," "ontsetts" and "onsetts" which appears to represent the out-buildings of the tenement.

The rents varied greatly: Roburndale, which was originally a forest, had just been inclosed and the land was rented at about 3¼*d.* an acre, whilst in Tatham and Wray the rents were 3*s.* 11*d.* and 3*s.* 10*d.* an acre. These rents were the lowest and highest and there were all varieties between them.

The survey adds an important new source for the study of the early agricultural system of Lancashire to those, comparatively few, examined by Professor H. L. Gray, of Harvard University, in his English Field Systems (1915; pp. 242-9). Though less than fifty years older than the fullest of these, the Survey of the Manor of Rochdale 1626, edited for this Society in 1913 (New Series, Vol. 71), it supplies much more evidence, both in direct mention and otherwise, of common field survivals.

In preparing this document for the press, to save space and printing, the rent paid, which in the original is shown in a column on the right, and the true or commercial value which appears in a column on the left, have been placed below the description of the holding. Also the words "at the will of the Lord," which occur in each description of a holding, have been left out.

Tenant-right had come into being and as long as a tenant at will observed the customs of the manor the Lord could not eject him, for when Edward Lord Morley (son-in-law of Sir Wm. Stanley Lord Mounteagle) tried to raise the rents and eject tenants they took him into the Duchy Court and he lost his case.<sup>1</sup>

The original document was copied by a clerk in the office of Mr. Bennison of Hornby; but again no date is given. Now there were two Thomas Bennissons of Hornby, father and son, who were attornies living in Hornby at the end of the seventeenth and beginning of the eighteenth centuries. The handwriting suggests a transitional script from the seventeenth to the eighteenth century ; so assuming 1720 as the date of the transcript we find that the original document was about 140 years old, if not more, and had probably suffered from hard usage as it would have been referred to many times to ascertain the bygone history of the tenancies ; this may account for bad Latin and for some of the curious spellings of place-names which would not be familiar to a clerk in an office and may therefore have been copied incorrectly. The more ungrammatical forms in the Latin have been corrected in the printed text.

This document, with the succeeding one, was found among the papers of Mr. George Wright of Heysham (the defendant in the celebrated lawsuit of Tatham v. Wright) and is now the property of Mrs. J. G. Wright of Halton Park, by whose courtesy the present writer was permitted to see the document and make a copy. It is referred to by Whitaker in his History of Richmondshire and also in the last edition of Baines's History of Lancashire.

Finally I should like to express my thanks to Mr. G. H. Tupling, M.A., Ph.D., for his kind assistance in elucidating the archaic words used in the documents herewith presented.

KIRKBY LONSDALE.

M<sup>d</sup> That the Ten<sup>ts</sup> of the Manor and the ten<sup>ts</sup> of divers other Lords to the number of 29 several tenants have a Common of Pasture called Hutton Moor containing about 120 acres but Brackens ats Ferns is the best comodity and no turf.

Also it is thought M<sup>r</sup> Midleton hath no Lease of the said Mill since the Lease that was made for 21 years in Anno 38 Eliz:<sup>1</sup> 8 [sic] which was ended long since ut in libro Sec<sup>do</sup> Eliz: Neither Hutton.

Also Mr Bindlass hath a Grist Mill in this Manor of his waste but the water thereof runneth on my Lords Land on Kellet Moor which hath been turned by the Lord Thomas Mounteagle when Mr Geo: Redman sold the same Mill upon some discord over the Tenement that Mr Brabyn dwelleth in when Mr Mort first took the same.

Ad huc Whittington and Newton.

M<sup>d</sup> that the said Intack in Whittington whereon my Lords tenants and others have several Dales containeth 180 Acres whereof they have been quietly seised this 60 years thereabout until now of late about 6 years last past the said M<sup>r</sup> Francis Tunstall challenged to be the Chief Lord of Whittington and thereby pretended Title to all the said Intack and would have my Lords tenants and all others that held there to compound with him and to pay for every acre.

Also my Lords tenants and the Freeholders Tenants have one Common of Pasture called Whittington Moor which containeth about 200 acres wherein they have several Dales for their Turfe.

Also they have ab<sup>t</sup> 40 acres of Common in Thurseby [Thirby] Shaketts and Seley Wood [Sellet Wood].

The Challenge of my Lord to be only or one of the Chief Lords of Whittington and Newton : First my Lord hath a Manor in Whittington and divers Free Tenants w<sup>ch</sup> hold by him service As Hudleston, Banes. y<sup>e</sup> Lord of Bethom and others and hath also 43s. 4d. of Chief Rent yearly also my Lord hath out of Newton 18d. free rent of M<sup>r</sup> Tunstall his tenants being Parcel of Whittington.

Also my Lord hath certain Free rent out of the Tenem<sup>t</sup> called Grislake yearly paid w<sup>ch</sup> Tenement hath Common of Pasture for the said Free Rent throughout the said Intack in Whittington.

Also my Lord hath more Land and Ancient rent than any one of the rest the Acres being measured.

Also certain Houses in Nether Biggins do pay free rent for an over shott to my Lord with their cattle into the L<sup>d</sup>shipp of Whittington yearly.

Also some have s<sup>d</sup> to impaire my L<sup>d</sup> s<sup>d</sup> challenge that he had the wardship of [blank] Hudleston for her land holden of the Manor of Hornby and not of Whittington but me seemeth the contrary for in the Manor of Hornby the heirs of Hudleston are not for suit at the head Court nor pay not that Manor any rent or yet do any service I can find but in the dimission book or rental 21 Henry y<sup>e</sup> 8th folio 60 It appeareth that one Richard Hudleston Esq<sup>r</sup> parcelled the Manor of West Hall and certain other Land of the Lord Thomas Mounteagle as of his Manor of Whittington in Knight Service.

INTRODUCTION TO THE REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF HORNBY CASTLE, Co. LANCASHIRE FOR THE YEAR MICHAELMAS 1581 TO MICHAELMAS 1582

THIS is a long paper roll made by stitching sheets of foolscap paper together as the roll grew in length. It has been roughly handled and the heading completely torn away.

To those acquainted with the history of Lonsdale, the details supplied by this account will be found to add much to what is already known about the various manors and tenancies of the Hornby Castle estates, and in some cases to clear up what has hitherto been doubtful or unintelligible ; while to the student of economic history generally they will, it is believed, provide valuable illustration of estate organisation and management in the sixteenth century.

The Lords Mounteagle had their Hornby properties supervised by Commissioners, whose numbers varied from time to time, and who were chosen from the principal gentry in the neighbourhood ; they also had a clerk to record their proceedings who was often a younger son of the Morley family of Wennington Hall. Each copy of admittance to a tenement is signed by two or three of these Commissioners.

There was a Receiver of Rents who, in the present accounts, was Christopher Carus, Esq., of Halton Hall (second son of Mr. Justice Carus of Kirkby Lonsdale) ; he also appears to have had authority to sanction purchases and payments and gives one the idea that he was a sort of major-domo.

The legal work was attended to by Henry Brabyn, a lawyer, who was also Registrar of Wills for the five western deaneries of the archdeaconry of Richmond. He lived in a house called Le Hurst or Hirst on the boundary of the townships of Docker and Borwick ; but the manorial Courts were held by a Richard Bradyll who may have been one of two men of that name admitted to Grays Inn in 1559 and 1579 respectively.

The amount of americiaments of Court outstanding is surprising, viz. £325 7s. 3½*d.*, the reason being that the bailiffs could not distrain, as many of the offenders lived outside of their bailiwicks or had no goods within.

Each manor had a separate bailiff and in some cases also a deputy. The bailiffs named in this Roll were as follow :—

For the manor of Hornby—Christopher Turner and his deputy Henry Chatburne, who was also a publican in Hornby.

For the town of Hornby—John Wynder.

For Caton—Richard Baynes.

For Farleton—Thomas Marshe, with a deputy Christopher Bateson.

For Roburndale—Thomas Sedgswick.

For Tatham—Thomas Birkett, with a deputy John Lewis.

For Heysham—George Borrowe.

For Sedbergh—Nicholas Cornay.

Mention is also made of John King, clerk of the household, and of Robert Dowell, clerk of the kitchen, who received money to be expended on the supply of goods and food. Finally, Brian Garnett's name appears as auditor of the accounts, coming once a year with his clerks after Michaelmas to hold his audit.

In addition to the lands which Lord Mounteagle owned, he had leases of Melling rectory, of Bolton-le-Sands rectory, of Clapham rectory and of half the vicarage of Caton ; hence the rather wearisome details of tithe lambs, &c., on the receipt side of the account.

The roll also shows that fines were collected on the marriage of a tenant's daughter (see Foreign Receipts by Christ. Carus, Esq.).

The date of the death of William Lord Mounteagle is given as 10 November, 1581, under the heading "Charges about the Lord Mounteagle's burial"; and the funeral appears to have been conducted on 12 December. Apparently a month was allowed for the relations to assemble.

The rectory of Melling, which had belonged to the Abbot of Croxton in Leicestershire, was still in the hands of the Crown, as Lord Mounteagle paid £17 10s. rent a year for it ; he also paid 33s. 4d. for the half of the vicarage of Caton.

There is also an interesting account of the wounding and cure of two of Lord Morley's men in an affray at the summer Assizes at Lancaster in 1582, showing the cost incurred, viz. £16 16s. 5½d. The affray was between the retinue of Lord Morley and that of the Lord Strange, but the cause of the quarrel is not given.

That the Lords Mounteagle were considerate landlords is to be inferred from several cases where the tenants' rents were in arrears, and notably in the case of John Barker of Cawood, whose rent of 20s. a year was in arrear for 19 years.

<sup>1</sup> This total is incorrect. The true figure for the pounds is mdlxxxiv (1584), not mclxxxiv (1184) as proved both by addition of the items and by reference to the grand total of receipts £1,491 19s. 4½d. (above, pp. 101-2). The figures as given would show a profit of over £300 instead of the adverse balance recorded here. In transcription of the original document, now lost, c = 100 has been carelessly written for d = 500.
